Who Are We?

Where Our Story Begins

Who are we? This question has plagued Lincoln for years. Students themselves don't quite know where to associate the school because, geographically, Lincoln serves students from Belleville to Milan, with no town to call our own. We hear about "The Lincoln Way", but what does it mean?

Each year we grow larger by the number, but come no closer to defining our existence. The community spans, yet offers no answers.

Who: Yoon Choi '06 and Nate Lucier '06.

Enjoying Wacky Wednesday's wildness, Choi and Lucier laugh it up. Both decided to dress as nerds for the festivities.

New organizations such as the Peace Club and Gay-Straight Alliance were started to help some students find who they are and what they believe in.

Identity issues are evident on our scoreboards as well. Teams need community and school support in order to succeed. Pride is at stake when identity is questioned.

Self-discovery and the quest for defining "The Lincoln Way" was our task. Our goal was to locate the heart and soul of what it truly means to be a Railsplitter. Join us in our journey...

By Jacob Sanders '06

Who: Stephanie Whittenberg '06

During the wee hours of the morning, Whittenberg is caught writing "Seniors". No need for alarm; it's her own car.

Who: Brian Bush '08 and Geoffrey Janowiak '08.

Horsing around before a soccer game in Milan, Bush wrestles with Janowiak. "We were talking about our friend and foreign exchange student, Alejandro, who went back to Spain, and I hit Geoff and said 'this one's for Alejandro,'" said Bush.

Who: Brittney Hall '08

Working hard on the sophomore float Hall messes with the chicken wire. Her work was in vain since the sophomore float came in last place.

Who: Jackie Vallance '08 and Jonna Wright '07.

Clowning it up, Vallance and Wright stop for a quick chat between classes. Their elaborate costumes were stand-outs amongst all the spirit week participants. "Everyone dressed up this year, it seems," said Vallance "But, of course, mine and Jonnas' were the best, no contest".

Where We Started

We kicked off the the year without a dull moment. Chaos is a term Lincoln knows only too well. It came as no surprise to see a mob of kids surrounding the counseling office on the first day of school, waiting for a revised schedule.

The mass confusion was also tinged with a thoughts of a summer gone by too fast, "Summer was way too short, I didn't get done all I needed or wanted to do," said Eve Lasswell '07.

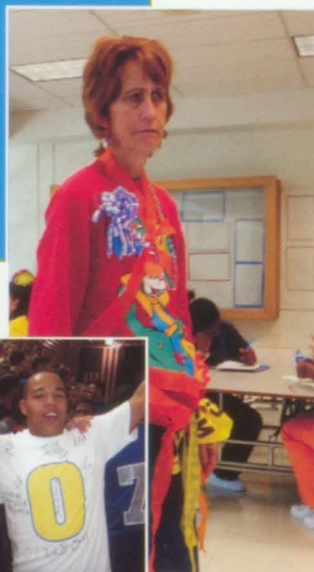

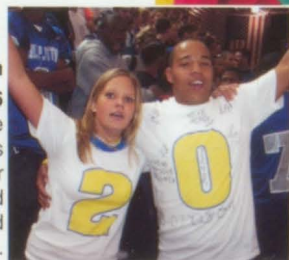

Getting into the groove of things took very little time for other students, who quickly got back into their routine. Many went back to the organizations, sports and classes that they had become accustomed to with ease. Peace and monotony was soon interrupted by spirit week and Homecoming festivities. The fall season concluded with the Drama Department's production of Footloose and the end of the first athletic season.

We began with a whimper...the kind all students experience when the Back-to-School commercials are seen on TV. As momentum built throughout the fall, students got ready for what came next...

Playing a bass drum during the pep assembly for the Homecoming game, Prince marches with the band, "I don't usually play the big drum, I usually play the medium size one, and it was weird because the drum was about four times my size. But it made Homecoming great because I was able to do solos and be extra loud," said Prince.

Who: Gabrielle Godbold '06
 Making an appointment with senior counselor Bea Kuwik, Godbold, waits her turn to fix her schedule. "I was put in a class that I didn't need. Why take it if you don't need it? Math isn't my favorite subject anyway."

 Sitting in Modern Novels on the first day, Felts gets back to basics. "Nobody ever WANTS to get back to doing school work, but it's something you have to do if you plan on walking with your senior class. It's what I dread most about coming back to school," said Felts.

William Barnett '06

"I was excited to get up in the morning for the first day of school because it was my senior year, and I was sick of working during the summer."

Amanda Overall '07

"Waking up for the first day of school was the worst feeling in the world. The only thing that made it better was that I was staying at my friend's house."

Dustin Goette '08

"It was so hard to wake up in the morning because I dreaded coming back to school. It was the first day, who wants to come back to school?"

Meet the Counselors

Student Life

The doors flew open, the crowds of students poured in on the first day. Teachers awaited the arrival of students for the past few days, while they worked in their rooms doing last minute preparations. "I was excited about coming back after a long, hot summer, I got pretty bored with nothing to do at home," said Mr. John Zrioka.

Along with all the mixed feelings of returning, there were many problems with student's schedules. Some students were waiting for days just to see their counselor. "My wait time in the counseling office was approximately two days, three hours and 21 minutes. Beforehand, my schedule was about as messy as a pig covered in mud on a hot July day in the middle of a mud-wrasslin' hootenanny," said James Himes '06.

Although some students had troubles, others were just excited or flat out upset about returning to school. For some students, it was just another first day.

Who: Mr. William Moran

Describing the administrator's new outlook, Moran easily put it into words, "We were excited about the excellent behavior of the students," said Moran about the first day, "particularly in a building of 1,600 adolescents."

Who: Mr. William Welch

Getting back into the groove, Welch starts it over again. "It's always exciting to come back to school. Teaching is the only job that every year, you get to start over. It's always a new adventure with every school year," said Welch.

Taking it Back

After the disastrous Homecoming of 2004, administrators were weary of keeping this year's activities to their full five day span, "My biggest concern was the amount of students we had to accommodate," said Assistant Principal Sharolyn Dixon.

As a result of last year's problems, a compromise between the week's length and the pep assembly activities was reached. Students were rewarded with a full spirit week, but a drastically reduced Pep Assembly. Student Council organized a small fundraiser to benefit Hurricane Katrina victims by donating five dollars for every basket each class president made. "The competition was a great way to show Lincoln's support and I'm glad to have helped," said Sophomore Class President Jackie Vallance.

Jackie Vallance.

Having learned their lesson after last year's vandalism, seniors organized a less damaging activity. At 5 am the morning of the Homecoming game, they gathered in the East lot, parked in the shape of an '06, socialized and had breakfast. # Broke as a Joke

As The Economy Slows and the Cost of Everyday Life Goes Up, Becoming a Teenager Now Comes with a Steep Price Tag

High school has become more expensive than ever. Being a teenager in general has been expensive enough, but with historically high gas prices, shopping and going out to eat became luxuries that teens had to cut back on. Students were reduced to simply sitting around because no one has any money.

"When me and my friends don't have money, we go out and we window shop," said Ashley Goss '06.

This was why most students have found sanctuary from all the costs in places like the dollar menu at fast food restaurants and shopping at Value World. "I love Value World, it's so much fun to go there with friends and buy random, cheap clothes," said Amanda Charlton '08.

THE GOOD TIMES

What Friends are For...

Friendships in the Hands of Trusted Pals May Last Years or Just Until High School Ends

When the new school year started, new friendships began and the old ones were rekindled. Through the hard times and good times, 'life long' friends take the chances that last forever.

Even teachers take time to make friends in the halls, though sometimes friends leave us way too soon.

"A group of four of us planned on getting our Masters, and in that time one of us learned she had cancer. It was hard, but because of our friendship, each one of us got our Masters before her time here was gone," said Ms. Marsha Frank.

On the other hand, there are those friendships that once they experience the drama that is high school such as gossip, the opposite sex or busy schedules, they are done for. "Well, through elementary I was best friends with this girl, then once high school came, we started hanging out with different people. We just went separate ways," said April Giraud '06.

There are always a mixture of personalities in the high school scene, and that is why some friendships work, and others don't. With managing a job, boyfriend/girlfriend and all the classes & homework, it can be hard to keep your friends first.

Where We Went

As temperatures dropped, so did many of the activities we took part in during the fall.

The freshmen class settled into their new surroundings, while seniors searched for new ones as many focused their efforts on college applications.

Exams forced many underclassmen to focus on academics rather than their social lives for a change.

With gray months that seemed to drag on, many students joined clubs and indoor sports to break up the monotony. Wrestling, hockey, volleyball and indoor track practice kept us active, while late adventures made the night more exciting. Newly formed clubs such as Students Against War, institutions like National Honor Society and returnees such as Key Club gave many students the opportunities to explore their changing identities. Many students also looked forward to vacations and Cominghome. "I was definitely happy when the breaks finally came around. It helped liven up the winter," said Andrea Porter '07.

Even though the winter kept us in, it couldn't stop us from exploring who we are. We began to see our identity be defined by those students who worked to make a difference.

Performance Anxiety

Choir and Band Students Constantly

Deal With the Stress of the Stage

Anxiety was an issue most teens always had to face throughout high school. Whether it be worrying about classes or about personal issues, stress had become just another part of everyday life. For those who performed in band and choir, there was an additional form of anxiety: performance anxiety. The responsibility of memorizing all the music perfectly as well as performing on stage could be quite stressful.

Choir tried hard to overcome this obstacle by working hard to get things right. "The week before performances were always chaotic; everyone had to give their all," said Jonna Wright '07. There are always concerts and performances to worry about, though this year there was one less; the Christmas concert was canceled due to bad weather. Many seniors were upset because the concert was not only a seasonal tradition, but also their last.

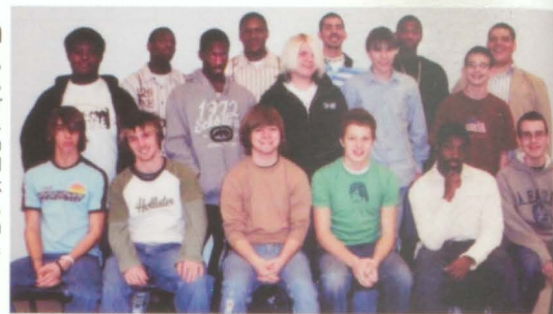

The bands, like the choirs, had their own anxieties. Beyond all the performances at games, band had their own Solo and Ensemble Festival to worry about. They spent countless hours working on their pieces, however sometimes not even practice could help students overcome the anxiety. "Even if every practice before a performance goes perfectly, a performance can go badly due to anxiety. Once during a solo, I completely froze up and couldn't play," said Eve Lasswell '07.

"The week before a performance is always hectic. We really have to give it our all."

Students Strive to Create a More Memorable and Unique Year

TOMORROW

Class Officers were forced to be a little more creative. As school began, classes pledged to give their all...meaning dedication and time. But as the year went on, officers found their classes lacked initiative, as well as ideas for unique fundraisers. "It seems like we're always broke. There's always another obligation that costs money but we always get what we need. There's always someone thinking of a way to get more money," said John Danielson '06.

Even Student Council had been working as much as possible, trying to get others involved and spending much of their time planning activities. "Being the president of Student Council, I have to get people involved and make sure things are going how they're supposed to. It makes activities at the meetings more memorable and enjoyable when more people are involved and active," said Angela Baugher '06.

Two of the more active groups within the school, Student Council and the Class Officers responsibilities range from planning the two Spirit Weeks to answering to administrators when something goes horribly wrong. Though sometimes difficult to live up to, these are the students who represent the future.

Homecoming Spirit Week Kicks off the School Year While Cominghome Marks the Beginning of the End

Disappointment was the theme of Cominghome. Between shortened Spirit Week activities, the game loss and the lackluster dance, students felt Cominghome didn't quite measure up to expectations.

The seniors' disappointment hung in the air all week when class color day was taken out of the spirit day line up. "I was disappointed because we didn't have class color day and it was our last spirit week," said Jonathan Fox '06. The seniors planned their own impromptu class color day on Monday instead. The varsity basketball team was favored to beat Dexter but lost by two. For many, the best part of the game was the crowning of King Jackson Hanks '06. While many were not surprised Hanks '06 was voted king, the stunned look on his face showed his modesty at the honor. "I thought being crowned king was amazing; it was completely unexpected," said Hanks.

The casual after-game dance disappointed, as usual, though some just liked having something to do on a Friday night.

Overall, even though the week did not live up to its expectations, at least there was one.

Responsibility & Safety First

Students Gain Responsibility and New Skills

Through Classes In and Out of the Building

Math taught us numbers. English taught us grammar, but the students that took classes like RCTC, Cadet Teaching, Special Education, Health and Science learned an extra something else along the way.

RCTC students took classes that would help them prepare for the work place in the work force. Safety in the workplace was the main focus for many areas of RCTC, especially building trades.

Cadet Teaching was a class where aspiring teachers were able to get their first taste of life in front of the class and the responsibility that it involves. "The class has really given me an idea of how the classroom really runs and it only makes me more excited to become a teacher myself," said Stephanie Caraccia, '07.

Parent/Child Development looked at everything from pregnancy to caring for babies and small children. The class focused on the many responsibilities that parent-hood entails.

Hoping to feed themselves when they move out, many students also take Nutrition and Food Prep. Students learned to make everything from salads to full dinners. Kitchen precautions and safety became another aspect of everyday life.

The important place to help prepare many students for the real world was the Special Education department. Students were taught everything from effective study techniques to skills that will help them get jobs.

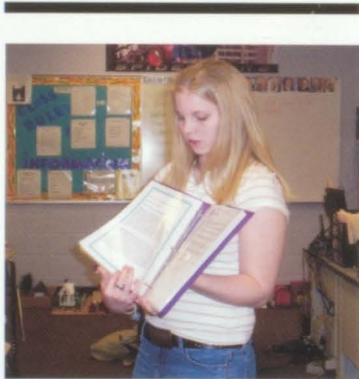

The students also learned kitchen safety as well and were able to cook and sell their product to teachers for lunch.

Although many took such classes for a semester or two, some students took science classes for multiple years. Science classes were a combination of both safety and responsibility with many hours spent in the lab. Safety mistakes in the lab also came with possible harm to the student or even the entire class and any lack of responsibility would lead to a bad grade. At the end of the year there was no doubt that students learned valuable lessons in both areas.

Whether in the workplace, lab, classroom or in life, safety and responsibility was the teachers' top priority with their students. Many hope that their students' classroom time has helped teach them to act responsibly.

WE STAND

Students found their compassion in many ways. For some, it was discovered in USO, Computer Club, SAW or even the Junior Statesmen. These activities gave students something to do other than school and made them feel involved. Another positive in joining was that their friends were also involved so they got to spend more time with them. "I joined because I enjoy working on computers, plus my friends are all there to hang out with too," said Jessica Gonzales '07.

When students joined a club or activity, they were contributing to Lincoln's identity in many ways. "We have a voice and we use it. We express our opinions that some students may be missing," said Kendrik Myers '07.

All in all, there were many reasons for joining clubs; some joined to get involved with the school or the community, some to gain knowledge, some just to be with friends. No matter what reason was given, students committed themselves to making a difference and working together.

Late Nights

When Winter Days Become Shorter, Student Nights

See No End

The school day may end at 2:40 pm, but it marks the beginning of the night. And although the school day begins at 7:40 am, some student's nights end well past 11 pm, "Even though I have to get up early for school, sometimes I don't get home until 11 or 12 at shelter for those out on the town.

Many late night outings weren't hindered by curfews either. "I don't have a curfew; My parents trust me to make the right decisions and respect my own night," said L'Oreal McKissack '06.

For those wishing to avoid a sleep-deprived school day, the weekends offered more opportunities for late- night adventures. Fast food drive-thru's such as Taco Bell stayed open well past 2 am. Places like Meijer, Denny's and Kroger offered boundaries," said Meghann Rice '07.

Many students late-night escapades had to end sometime. "By 1 am I'm usually sleeping," said Chris Greca '06. The true late nighters know that the night had to end so that the next adventure can begin.

Getting Testy

Students and Teachers Sound Off on

the Rules of Assessment

Coming back to school meant getting up early, new teachers and the one thing that all students dreaded... tests. It meant either preparing over time for that big exam or pulling an all-nighter. "I stay up all night and make sure I have everything right," said Jeremiah Williams '09.

Even though students hated tests, they had their preferred ones to take. Multiple choice and true/false tests ranked the highest. "Multiple choice tests are my favorite. I still can test myself, but eliminate the ones I know are wrong," said Kevandria Richards '07. Essay tests are longer and require more thought and can have many answers, while the objective-type tests have just one possible answer.

Teachers also had their favorite tests to prepare. "Essay tests are the easiest tests to create. I think that a higher order thinking test allows the instructor to test students for learned content," said Mr. Jamii Gilbert, Biology and Life Science teacher.

Instead of studying, some students would take the easy way out and just cheat. "Objective tests are easier to cheat on because you look over and BAM! The answers are right there," said Rachelle Malaney '08.

Even though tests weren't our favorite thing to do, we still had to grin and bear it in order to make it through another semester.

Performance tests can be just as intimidating as written tests.

Ms. Cindy Wilson's advanced dance class had a recital. "Dance class was real sweet! I had a lot of fun and it was so easy, I got to dance with my best friend for our exam," said Theodore.

"Essay tests are the easiest ones to create. I think that a higher order of thinking test allows the instructor to test students for learned content."

-Mr. Jamii Gilbert

Tests: The Breakdown...

Objective Tests: Your basic test with a definite right or wrong answer. Think multiple choice, true/false matching. This kind of test requires memorization and not much else. Not really a challenge, but if you don't know the material, it is obvious.

Subjective Tests: Essay and short answer tests are subjective because there is no right answer. It's more difficult than objective because you really have to know what you are talking about. But sometimes you can bluff your way through or at least argue with the teacher to get more points because there is no right or wrong answer.

Take-Home and Open Book: Usually subjective, these are tricky because you think you're getting away with something, but the questions are harder and the teacher expects more. Open book is a scam because you still have to know where to look and be quick about it...if you knew that much you don't need the book!

What was your favorite book to read in English class?

"Lord of the Flies, because it brought out more detail than any other book I have read."

Donald Foreman '06

"I liked The Messenger, because it's sweet. It made me mad in the end, though."

Bobby Blackwell '08

"This Present Darkness was a great book because it had a cool twist in the end."

Brittany Guynn '07

What was your favorite era taught in Social Studies?

"I like the 1970's, mostly because of That 70's Show, but I don't like their hair and tight clothes on guys."

William Manley '07

"I like the Middle-Ages, because I like men in armor."

Allyssa Benzinger '09

"I love the 1920's, because of the transformation of women. They went from boring to awesome!"

Katelyn Holcomb '08

AT HAND

Struggles took a hold of students who rose to the challenge of club membership. Coming up with new ideas, finding the time, meeting deadlines and attempting to stay organized were the major tasks that students tackled with flying colors. "Making time to participate in Key Club was always hard because I had to schedule it around my job, friends and my family," said Keith Brohl '06.

Though the Literary Magazine lost some of its momentum, the staff was unwilling to let it fail. "Unlike last year, students weren't submitting their own work. We had to track entries down," said Lin Yang '06.

To many, it seemed that it was always the same students who were under constant pressure to capture support for blood and canned food drives, while upholding their promises not to succumb to peer pressure and encouraging others to follow in their footsteps. Still, they found time to keep up with their studies, manage their social lives and give back to the school and community while having fun in the process.

"The course of true love never did run smooth," said Lysander in Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream. This quote summarizes the pitfalls of young love. Teens often perceive high school relationships unrealistically, as if it they meant life or death. Truthfully, dating serves as practice for when the "real thing" comes along later in life.

However, "puppy love" can teach mature lessons that need to be realized, "Relationships take your focus off important aspects of your life," said Amanda Clark '06. The ability to care of someone else's needs while meeting

Time and Learn to Beat the Clock

Crunch time is the most crucial time of any deadline. While some of us were ahead of the game, others waited until the last moment to start. Whether you are an over-achiever or a procrastinator, we all have deadlines. The question we had to ask ourselves: Do we really work better under pressure? Those who did not needed to pace themselves to meet their deadlines.

Some anxiously awaited the deadline, eager to get their masterpiece graded. However, others dreaded deadlines, which brought about nothing but headaches and stress. After all, once a project was done, another one was bound to be next. "I get stressed out right before a deadline. The only thing I can think of is that the whole school will be reading this. After I'm all done, though, it's nice to just be able to sit back and relax," said Alyssa Hiltunen '07, who was on the yearbook staff.

Art students worked hard throughout the year to prepare their projects for the art show. While they would like to have time to perfect each piece, there were always new tasks being assigned. WLHS had a similar problem because the crew had only a few minutes to create a flawless show in the morning.

Although some deadlines were met, others were not. Prioritizing and knowing which deadlines absolutely, positively must be met was sometimes a challenge, though a major goal of high school. Students needed to realize deadlines and due dates would always be a part of their lives, whether it be a bill or a presentation on the job. Time will tell if these lessons were instilled.

Quick costume changes, retouching make-up and switching the set are all of the things that drama students worried about for the run of the show. As opening night of Footloose approached, energy levels soared as students scurried to perform what became drama's first sold out show.

Actors completed microphone checks and finished last minute touch-ups to the set while others helped make over new cast members for their performance. At the end of the night, the audience gave a standing ovation.

Freshmen Entering High School Spill the

Positive and Negative Sides of the Academy

In an attempt to ease the change from middle school to high school, a committee of teachers and administrators, used a "small learning community philosophy" to establish the Ninth Grade Academy. The goal was to raise the overall GPA and encourage more organization, less confusion and fewer distractions.

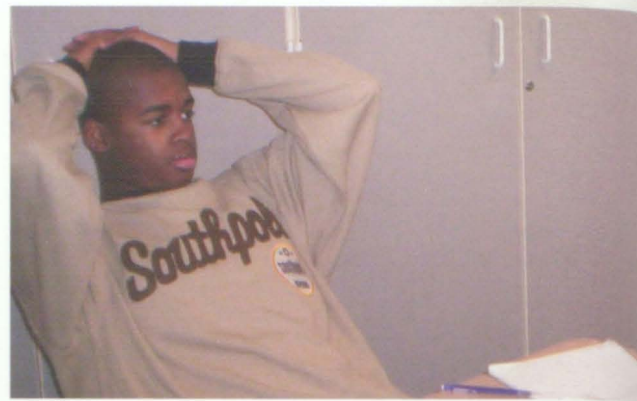

Freshmen entering high school knew this wouldn't be like any other year. Together, sixteen teachers were grouped into four teams to "core teach" the ninth grade. "The Ninth Grade Academy is ridiculous because the school is taking away the real freshman experience," said Kassie Richardson '09.

Many had mixed feelings about it; many freshmen become mad and frustrated, making them feel like they were back into middle school and not yet fully in high school. "Staying on the East side of the school, having fewer minutes passing time and only going to the West for our elective classes and lunch, it's like their trying to make us invisible," said Yvana Boone '09.

The academy has its critics, but not all are pessimistic about high school. "Even though were in this academy and we really have no time to associate with the higher grades, I still love high school and everything about it. It's a whole different world from middle school, even though that's what it's like now," said Morgan Kocis '09.

The Freshmen Academy is a wonderful new concept and we look forward to outstanding gains in both GPA and behavior in the freshman class of 2009.
-Mr. Rick Ross

What are the negatives of the academy?

"We are restricted to one area of the school for four hours and we don't get to experience what high school is really about until we're in tenth grade."

Kacie Parker '09

"We can't interact with other grades, so we can't learn from them."

Justin Foster '09

"They make you stay extra five minutes after class just sitting there. It puts a dent in social time which is highly needed because you don't have lunch with all your friends."

Where We Ended Up

Rising temperatures and the senior countdown helped usher in the spring. Spring fever set in as senior skip days increased and final projects were piled on the student body. After a long, cold-but-snowless winter students found time to enjoy bits of sunshine between the steady rains of spring.

Spring sports began in March. "I like spring because I can get out and play softball again," said Jaclyn Spalding '06. A rainy May canceled or postponed golf matches and softball games, though the teams worked to get the most out of the season.

May was also a busy time for seniors who spent their time counting credits and days left. The junior class organized the Junior/Senior Prom held May 13, ensuring an Enchanted May Night.

Although we couldn't wait for summer to come, the spring was a time for enjoying the time we had left and continuing the journey to discover "who we are".

Less is More

Who: Amanda Correa '07

Running toward the vault, Correa focuses on her goal of making it over the pole. "It was really hard to learn how to vault, but once I got the hang of it, I got more height," said Correa.

Who: Sarah Monks '07

In the sand trap Monks hits the ball into the green. Sand traps are the bane of even the best golfers such as Tiger Woods.

Each Meet Required More Out Of The Teams Due To Lack of Players

By Sarah Chamma '06, Beth Jones '06 and Alyssa Hiltunen '07

Who: Tiana Freeman '07

Vaulting over the high bar for the first time at a meet Freeman made it over at 4' 4". "I was nervous to go over the high bar for the first time at a meet. But I made it over, which was exciting," said Freeman.

•During the 2004-2005 season boys and girls track both lost one meet, this year both track teams were undefeated.

CON PRO

•The girls golf team had many inexperienced players this season making it more of learning experience.

There is No "I" in Team

Who: Allyson Pitch '07
 From center field, Pitch looks for an open teammate to pass the ball in to. "This year was pretty challenging, but all in all we did pretty well," said Pitch.

Who: Cortney Christophel '07
 Sweeping the ball from her opponents, Christophel uses her strong kick to launch the ball down the field. "I love when the other team works hard to get to our side then you just kick it right back," said Christophel.

Working as a Team Made the Games Run More Smoothly

By Christie Toth '06, Tonya O'Keefe '07 and Alyssa Hiltunen '07

Who: Jessica Fink '06
 On defence Fink heads the ball to gain control and make a run towards the goal. Fink helped lead her team to a nearly undefeated season.

- Eleven of the varsity girls have been playing soccer together since elementary school.

CON PRO

- There was only one senior on the girls varsity team out of fourteen players.

Girls' JV Soccer

Front Row: April Wynne, Brittany Kennedy, Elizabeth Barnett, Rebecca Studer, Stephanie Dority, Emily Lock. What song gets you pumped up for a game?

Athletics

Who: Desiree Holman '07
"I like to sing "On the Rooftop" by On The Rise because it's about four of my best friends and we always sing it together on the way to our games."

Who: Olivia Rangos '08
"The song that gets me pumped up before a game is "Ridin Dirty" by Chamillionaire because I like to sing it."

Who: Susanah Harrington '07
"My favorite song that I listen to before a game is "Breakin Free" from High School Musical because it gets me hype and makes me want to kick some butt!"

Who: Victoria Truhn '09

With a slight lead, Truhn moves down the field in an effort to shoot the ball. "This year we really grew as a team and improved. This game really showed it," said Truhn of the 5-0 win over Adrian.

Who: Princess Ogundipe '07

Blocking the opponent's kick, Ogundipe traps the ball and gains possession to move down the field to tie up the game against Adrian. Varsity won both meetings against Adrian.

For Better or Worse

*Changes Were Made, Some Good, Some Bad...
But All in All, Prom Was a Success*

One of the biggest controversies of the night, "selection" of Prom King and Queen, had everyone whispering. To avoid the usual popularity contest, King, Queen and court were chosen randomly. The class sponsors believed that this would be the best way to make it fair. Many students disagreed with this idea, "Even though I made queen, I didn't think it was fair for them to choose names out of a hat instead of letting students vote,"

Who: Cortney Dembny '06 and James Himes '06

"I don't remember when they called my name because I blacked out for a few minutes. When I came to, I wanted to thank so many people, but I didn't. Perhaps it was because I was pulled out of a hat," said Himes.

said Cortney Dembny '06.

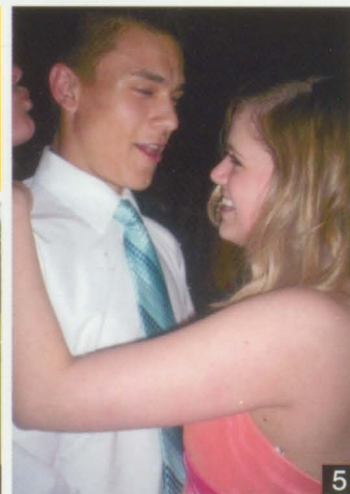

Some were upset about the location of prom being at Eastern Michigan University's Convocation Center. It was disappointing that prom was held in the same place that the seniors walk for graduation. However, the drive was a lot shorter than it was in previous years and it didn't get as hot.

A new addition was the raffle. Towards the end of the night, prizes such as I-pods, U of M tickets, digital cameras, gift certificates and portable CD players were given away. "Prom was awesome. I thought the raffles were really sweet," said Stephanie Caraccia '07.

By Sarah Chamma '06, Elizabeth Jones '06 and Tonya O'Keefe '07

Who: Amanda Nemeth '07 and Chad Eldridge '07

"The DJ wasn't very good. I still tried to make the most of the night and I had a good time," said Nemeth.

6. Enjoying the strawberries dipped in chocolate together Kurt Powder '07 and his date.

Caleb Williams '06

"This prom was bittersweet. I really just like to dance, but it was also hard knowing that this chapter of my life was coming to a close. All in all I had a good time with my friends."

William Holmes Jr. '07

"Getting dressed up was really fun and being with all my friends, riding on the party bus was really sweet too."

Jackson Hanks '06

"Dancing was my favorite part of prom. It was my last chance to be with all of my friends at once."

Doni Lundell Jr. '06 and Katelin Music '07

"To get ready for prom, I went to get my nails done, my hair done and I had to pick up the boutonniere at 3 pm," said Music.

Then and Now...

1988: Gadgets-VHS Players

Sony made the big decision in January 1988 to put their efforts into VHS players. For the first time ever, people were able to watch movies in their own homes at their own convenience.

1988: Album of the Year

The Joshua Tree, U2

Winning Album of the Year at the 1988 Grammy Awards, U2's US debut album The Joshua Tree was revered by critics and masses alike, selling over a million albums.

2006: Television - One Hour Dramas

Popular television throughout 2006 was dominated by the one hour drama. Shows with slowly unraveling plot lines such as Lost and 24 as well as teen dramas like The OC took charge of television screens.

2006: Video Games- Xbox 360

The Xbox 360 was introduced with the most realistic gaming graphics yet. Games like Halo 2 could not only be played with a friend, but with strangers throughout the globe by way of an online connection.

2006: Best Picture- Crash

Beating out tough competition like Brokeback Mountain and Capote, Crash's portrayal of racial discrimination and the human condition won Best Picture at the 2006 Oscars.

2006: Gadgets- Apple iPods

Revolutionizing the digital media market, Apple continued to introduce new iPod models, including a 60 GB Video iPod. Over 10,000 songs could fit in the iPod the size of your palm.

2006: Album of the Year

How to Dismantle an Atomic Bomb, U2

Proving, yet again, their own staying power, U2 won Album of the Year again in 2006 with the critically acclaimed How to Dismantle an Atomic Bomb.

1988: Best Picture- Rainman

Playing a mentally challenged savant, Dustin Hoffman won Best Actor for his role in the Academy Award winning film The Rainman. The film featured Tom Cruise as Hoffman's big time gambling brother.

1988: Video Games- Nintendo

Worlds away from the ball and paddle games of Atari, Nintendo introduced Super Mario Brother's 2. A leap in video game technology with its bright and colorful graphics, the gaming system dominated the market.

1988: Television-Sitcoms

Throughout the 1980's and 1990's half hour sitcoms dominated major television networks. Shows about American families such as Roseanne and The Cosby Show.

Fashions Throughout Our Life: 1988- Shoulder pads and big hair were fashion must-haves as we came into the world.

1993- The rise of grunge bands such as Nirvana and Hole allowed torn jeans and flannel shirts to grace the pages of magazines throughout the year. 1997- Mini skirts, platform shoes and leather pants made their comeback thanks in part to bands like the Spice Girls. 2000- Thanks to the popular Old Navy ads, fleece vests and outerwear dominated indoor fashion. 2006- Modeling themselves after popular shows such as The OC and Laguna Beach, young adults and 20-somethings rocked beach fashion even in the winter months.

Who: Presidents of Our Lifetime

Ronald Reagan 1980-1988, George Bush 1988-1992, William Jefferson Clinton 1992-2000, George W. Bush 2000-present.

THE AMERICAN PRESIDENTS

Blast From the Past

1988 was a very important year for many reasons.

The year that gave us the motto "Don't Worry, Be Happy", also gave birth to Prozac, U2 and perhaps most importantly, the graduating class of 2006.

In the world of politics, Sonny Bono became mayor of Palm Springs, FL, paving the way for actors/musicians turned political. Ronald Reagan passed the presidential torch to George H.W. Bush Sr.

Movies screens throughout the year were filled by Tom Cruise. With Cocktail, Top Gun, and Rainman, Cruise continued his escalation to superstardom. Betelgeuse, Who Framed Roger

As We Face the End of Our Time Here, We Look Back on an Era That Was Uniquely Our Own

Rabbit and Coming to America only elevated the feel-good atmosphere of the year.

It was also an eclectic year for music. While rap was moving into middle class suburban homes, hair bands dominated the L.A. music scene.

The television we grew up with like Roseanne, Who's the Boss, Full House and Growing Pains were the stars of the TV networks. Although we stretch to remember 1988, it's for sure that we can never forget all the things it gave us; including each other.

By Kaley Norris '06

Who: The Mazda RX-7

Most car designs of 1988 were boxy and straight. However the sleeker and more narrow design of the Mazda RX-7 appealed to sports car fanatics.

Who: The Locomotion

"Come on baby/ Do the locomotion" rang out Kylie Minogue's 1988 hit "Locomotion". As the song climbed its way to the top of the charts, the dance made its name as one of the most popular crazes of the year.

1. The Greenhouse Effect was discovered, revolutionizing environmental and scientific thought.
2. CD's outsell albums for the first time ever.
3. Beginning the pharmaceutical age, Prozac was first introduced to the public.
4. The beginning of the orange glow age, indoor tanning beds became a popular alternative to traditional methods.
5. No one could get the "cha cha cha CHIA" out of their heads or the fuzzy plants out of their homes in 1988.
6. Proving that some trends never really die, ripped jeans marked fashion trends both then and now.

WALKING THE LINE

Their Last Song

Seniors Say A Tearful Good-Bye As They Take In Final Words Of Advice

Commencement was held Thursday, June 2nd at the EMU Convocation center. On that day the class of 2006 did one of the scariest things they will ever do, they graduated and became adults. Although everyone dreams of the day they walk across the stage to receive their diplomas, many were nervous. "I had been waiting for this day for so long, but when I got up to receive my diploma, butterflies filled my stomach," said Chelsee Kolesar.

Many students were just relieved to finally be out of high school and couldn't wait for the ceremony to be over. Some grads became tearful during speeches, while others kept a sense of humor.

There were five salutorian speeches and two valedictorian, but the most memorable of all was Ms. Donna Anuskiewicz's speech in which she repeated a phrase she said before every weekend to her students, "Don't do anything stupid."

Although graduation was hard and tearful for many, the promises of the future put a smile on everyone's face.

Chelsea Gottman

"It's a relief to graduate, but it's hard for me to move on and leave some friends behind."

Chelsee Kolesar

"Graduation was one of the best days of my life; I got butterflies as soon as we walked into the convocation center. When we turned our tassels and threw our hats it all seemed surreal."

Lindsey Cleghorn

"Graduating was worth all the work we did in high school; it was worth the ride."

Angie

Wow! The last 18 years have gone by like the blink of an eye. I've watched my little girl with the wispy hair turn into a beautiful young woman. I am so proud of you! I admire your strength and determination. I know these traits will take you far in life. Thanks for all the fun times and the fits of uncontrollable laughter! Not to mention the lovely way we sing together! You are definitely a bright light in my life and I know you will take that light and spread it wherever you go.

I love you Angie!

- Mom

Lindsay-
We are all so very proud of you. You have worked to achieve your goals and we know that you will be successful in whatever you choose to do.

Congratulations!!
Mom, Dad, Jennifer,
Melissa & Granny

Tim Finnigan

On the day you were born you caused quite a raucous... you were late, had wild long hair and came into this world "singing" loudly... I can't say that much has changed except that I have grown to love you more each day. You will never know how much your compassion and kindness meant to me during a very difficult illness. All of the "I love you Moms" and hearing you sing made each day a little easier - thank you. Timmy, I love to hear you sing. You are about to embark on a new adventure. I'm confident that you can be anything you choose... so follow your dreams and persevere. Anyone who has achieved great things started with a great dream. My dream for you is to be healthy and happy and make good choices. Tim, you ARE On the Rise and I AM your #1 fan.

Your date for the Grammy's, Mom

Timothy Louis,

Congratulations! Have confidence in yourself and be proud of your accomplishments. Study hard and make the right choices.

Love, Dad

Timmy- We Love you... Rock on!
Love, Danny & Kasey

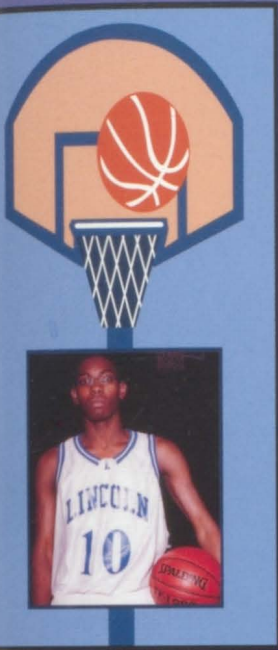

My Dearest Michael,

It seems like yesterday I was counting to make sure you had enough toes, now I'm counting to make sure you have enough credits to graduate. It was you that taught me how to enjoy little people and the true meaning of life. You taught me what truly loving someone means. I would gladly travel this journey with you all over again and I thank you for choosing me for this vacation. I love you more than you will ever know. From your loving mother,

Martha Gatlin

Molly

Make-up with markers,
Easter bonnets and patent leather shoes,
Morning rides on the bus with your big brother,
Exciting ballet recitals and rose bouquets,
Music, piano, the latest fashion,
Early soccer games on the field and in the bleachers,
Moving on and moving up,
Enjoy the good memories and hold them tightly,
Molly, you have left your mark on our hearts forever!

All Our Love,
Dad Mom & Nick

LINNY

We can hardly believe that this day has come... graduation. It seems like only yesterday you were starting kindergarten. You are very special and you make us proud. Reach for your dreams and don't look back. You have what it takes to succeed. Always remember how much we love you. Have fun with life. Follow your heart and study hard. Good luck at U of M. Go Blue! You will always be our "Linny-Roo," our "Ruby," my little "Boo."

Or a little girl
could grow up so fast.

Brittney

After a while you learn the subtle difference between holding a hand and sharing a life
and you learn that love doesn't mean possession and company doesn't mean security

and you learn that kisses aren't contracts and presents aren't promises and you begin to accept your defeats with your head up and your eyes open with the grace of a woman not the grief of a child and you learn to build your hope on today as the future has a way of falling apart in mid-flight because tomorrow's ground can be too uncertain for plans

yet each step taken in a new direction creates a path toward the promise of a brighter dawn and you learn that even sunshine burns if you get too much so you plant your own garden and nourish your own soul instead of waiting for someone to bring you flowers
and you learn that love, true love always has joys and sorrows seems ever present, yet is never quite the same becoming more than love and less than love

so different to define and you learn that through it all you really can endure that you really are strong that you do have value
and you learn and grow
with every goodbye
you learn

Congratulations Jon

You have always worked so hard to reach your goals. Don't stop now. You're very smart and intellectual. The future is waiting for you! We are so proud of you and all that you have done.

With Lots of Love,
Mom & Dad

Kourtnee,
It seems like just yesterday you were waving goodbye to us on your first day of kindergarten. Where did all that time go? Now you have become a beautiful, responsible and intelligent young lady. You have set high goals for yourself so stay focused and follow your heart and dreams and you will succeed. Good luck into your new adventure. We couldn't be more proud to say that you are our daughter.

Colophon

The 480 copies of the fall-delivered 2006 Liberator were printed in Winston-Salem, NC. The size eight book, a reduction from the size nine of the previous three years, was printed on 100-lb gloss paper. A matte laminated litho cover shows students at various stages of displaying their personality. The font is AYT Firewalk and used Jostens Surf colors.

The theme, "Who Are We?" was conceived by Ernestine Treece '05 and designed by the 2006 staff. Jostens templates were used in several sections. The theme question refers to the constant identity crisis that defines Lincoln and its outlying area. With no town to offer support, the LHS student body often lacks spirit and self-promotion. The 168-page ALL COLOR Liberator, volume 53, is the first of its kind. Using Helvetica as a primary typeface, numerous fonts were used as headlines, etc.

A small staff of only 11, nine of whom were seniors, using six computers, created the book. Pagemaker 6.5 was the Yeartech operating system. Editors Kaitlin Shelby '06, Cortney Dembny '06 and Kaley Norris '06 oversaw everyday production.

The majority of senior portraits were taken by Prestige Portraits of Ann Arbor. Underclass photos were taken by Jostens School Photographers. Ms. Cheri Bondie freelanced most of the sports candids.

Books sold for $60 through Jostens Direct Solutions. Pre-orders were taken at a 2005 Yearbook Release Party in September '05, for a price of $55. A Last Chance Sale was held in May for $65.

The Liberator Staff would like to thank the following: Ms. Lynn Lauri, Ms. Jodie Hotchkiss, Ms. Kelly Huling, Mr. Sid Wright and Staff, Mr. Tim Shaefer of Prestige, all class/club sponsors, all coaches, each of our advertisers and contributors, LHS administrators, Ms. Cheri Hatchard, Mr. John McGehee and technology staff, The Loop, Lindsay Cleghorn '06, all the "cool" teachers who supported us, Mr. Pat Streb and Ms. Kristin Stimmel of Jostens.

Where Our Story Ends

The drop of a pin could be heard a minute before the final bell rang for the class of 2006. Ready to run out of the building, student anxiety grew by the second. Knowing it was time to become an adult, prepare for the next phase in life and maybe start a family scared many, while for others began an excitement never known. From the "nights that turned into morning and the friends that turned into family," final memories from the best four years of our lives were made.

Who: Yoon Choi '06

While cleaning out her locker the day before her last, Choi was dumped into the trash can. "Nate (Lucier) thought it would be funny to put me in the trash can and roll me around the school; we found it hilarious," said Choi.

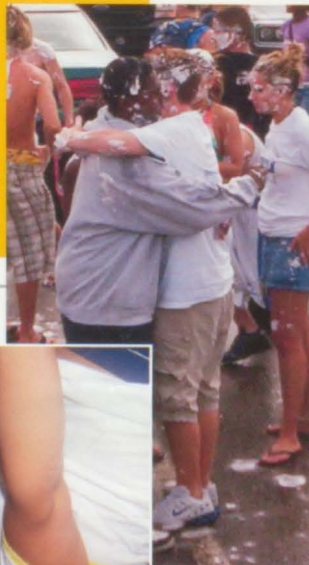

That last week, seniors made one last attempt at spirit by passing out flyers instructing seniors to dress in theme. Wednesday was College T-shirt Day; Thursday, Class Color Day; and Friday, Senior T-shirt Day.

A smelly, but harmless, senior prank of raw fish in the lighting system kicked May 26, the seniors' last day, off with a collective "Ewww". Despite the lingering odor, all the spirit from the previous four years was released in one final walk through the doors. This was not an exit but entry into a future that answers the question of who we are.

By Kaitlin Shelby '06 and Alyssa Hiltunen '07

Who: Jackson Hanks '06 and Erick Moberg '06

Following the senior last day annual shaving cream fight, Hanks and Moberg hugged in the parking lot. Although the two had the whole summer ahead of them, a heartfelt hug seemed appropriate for the occasion.

Who: Nathan Lucier '06

On his mark, Lucier gets set to go. "I was so ready to leave, I just wanted to get out of there as fast as possible. So I figured it would be awesome to sprint out," said Lucier. Seniors' last day was May 26.

Who: Chirstie Ramsey '06 and Lindsay Cleghorn '06

Goofing around after the traditional last-day shaving cream fight Cleghorn and Ramsey, along with peers, celebrate the feeling of finally being out of high school. This day kicked off two weeks worth of senior activities and their last chances to spend time as a class. Parties and sleepovers lent themselves to lots of tears and laughter.

Who: The Senior Class

Exiting in excitement as their last day ended, seniors ran from their third hour classrooms to meet in front of the main doorway. Here, there was much hugging and crying, shouting and saying final goodbyes to hall passes, textbooks, minute bells, homework assignments and the teachers who had helped shape them into the people they will become.

Hurricanes ravage the Gulf Coast region in the fall of 2005, posing an unprecedented test of the United States federal emergency response efforts. Hundreds of lives are lost and thousands are left homeless in the wake of Category 4 Hurricane Katrina, followed by Rita and Wilma. The tragedy spurs contributions of money, talents, homes, food and more in an attempt to raise spirits and rebuild the area.

August

- 25 Hurricane Katrina strikes Florida.
- 28 Mandatory evacuation of both New Orleans and Mississippi is ordered as Katrina becomes a Category 5 storm in the Gulf of Mexico.
- 29 Downgraded to a Category 4 storm, Katrina hits land. 1.3 million homes and businesses lose electricity in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. 30 levees are breached, flooding New Orleans and leaving 100,000 people stranded. After slow government response, civil unrest and looting begins.

- 31 President Bush surveys the damage.

September

- 1 30,000 National Guard troops are deployed. Gas prices spike to as high as $5 per gallon.
- 2 President Bush visits Louisiana and signs a $10.5 billion relief bill. Nearly 154,000 evacuees arrive in Texas.
- 4 The New Orleans Superdome is evacuated.
- 6 President Bush and Congress pledge to investigate the flawed disaster response.
- 9 Government-issued debit cards are distributed to evacuees. The program fails and is ended days later.
- 12 Michael Brown, head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, resigns. Flooding is down to 50 percent in New Orleans.
- 14 New Orleans Mayor Ray Nagin announces a phased repopulation plan.
- 15 New Orleans begins to reopen. Katrina is named the most destructive hurricane in U.S. history.
- 20 Louisiana Governor Kathleen Blanco declares a state of emergency as Hurricane Rita strengthens off the coast.
- 22 Rita hits the Louisiana coast and heads for Texas.
- 23 Thousands evacuate eastern Texas and the 9th Ward of New Orleans floods once again after levees are overrun.

October

- 24 Hurricane Wilma hits southwest Florida.
